

Computer Literacy Program

2014 Annual Report

Computer Literacy Program (CLP) turned 10 in 2014, and it is a pleasure to report to you on its 2014 year-end status and the ten years of progress. CLP was launched in late 2004 as the New Jersey Office of Volunteers Association for Bangladesh (VAB), New York to empower the underprivileged youths of rural Bangladesh through hands-on computer training and ICT-enhanced education. In 2014, CLP evolved into an independent organization for operational agility and simplicity. CLP maintains friendly collaboration with VAB which supports traditional educational programs to improve quality of education in Bangladesh. With generous help and continuing support from donors and sponsors like you, the CLP has attained considerable success since 2004:

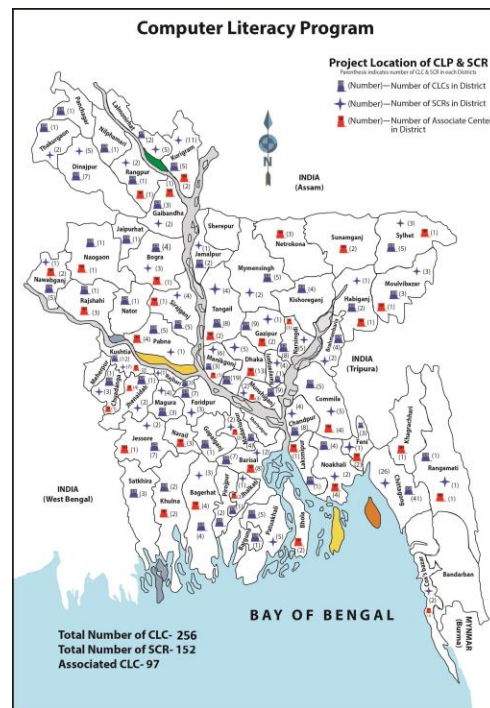

- To date, CLP has established 256 Computer Literacy Centers (CLCs) and 97 Associate CLCs in 56 of 64 districts of Bangladesh (over 1.5% of all schools now have CLCs), where students are receiving hands-on computer literacy training free of charge.
- 70% of the CLCs are in rural areas.
- Trained 608 teachers (16% female).
- Trained 89,327 students (49% girls).
- Established 152 Smart Class rooms (SCRs) in different regions of the country (see map). Trained 604 teachers (31% female) to run the SCRs.
- Many local and multinational organizations supported the program. These include British Council (Dhaka), Microsoft Asia, Intel, Bank Asia, Relief International, Sentrana Corporation, Standard Chartered Bank-Bangladesh, Newton Institute (Dhaka), Foyzunnesa Ahamed Foundation (FAF); and philanthropic organizations, such as, Khan Family Foundation in USA, NABIC in USA, Spandaan B - Austin, IK Foundation Bangladesh, and Kamal Hossain Family Foundation Bangladesh.

2014 Activities Highlights

- ❖ CLP (Computer Literacy Program Volunteers) evolved into an independent entity for organizational and operational agility and simplicity.
- ❖ Celebrated the first decade of achievement (2004-2014) in a lively CLP annual event on August 9, 2014 at Rutgers University Center, NJ, USA.
- ❖ CLP was honored with an award at the 2014 NABC (North American Bangladesh Convention) for outstanding services to Bangladeshi underprivileged youths.
- ❖ The computer literacy training cost sustained at ~ $6 per student.
- ❖ Launched two new pilot programs: (a) Computer Users Club (CUC) model to develop a team of in-house computer enthusiasts and experts; and (b) Online Servicing of CLCs to reduce maintenance cost and response time
- ❖ Collaborated with British Council Bangladesh to implement two programs, After School Club for Students and Continued Professional Development (CPD) for Teachers, aimed at developing ICT and English skills, support global citizenship through awareness, and cultural interaction. Of 500 teachers selected for CPD, 110 were from 55 CLCs. The programs will continue through 2015.
- ❖ Launched a web-based content development initiative where SCR teachers will post the contents they develop for use by other SCR teachers. The contents will be reviewed by educators, users and CLP volunteers. It is expected that such an open access will promote rapid content development.
- ❖ Many earlier-established centers need hardware replacement. With generous support from center sponsors, as well as, individual and institutional donors, we replaced 58 computers, 30 LED monitors, 19 motherboards, 58 UPSs, 9 hard disks, 2 modems, 4 printers and other peripherals.

CLP sincerely appreciates your support to maintain its current level of activities. Your continued support and generous contributions are crucial to the overall success of the program. Please visit www.clpweb.org for more detailed information on our program.
